

STUDENT CURRICULUM EVALUATION (FORM A)

Intelligence Production Course 2-74

The principal objectives of IPC 2-74 are (1) to help you, the young professional, become more knowledgeable about the production of finished intelligence, (2) to explain CIA's role in the intelligence cycle and the relationships of this Agency with other components of the US Intelligence Community, (3) to provide an orientation to several new methodologies, in the analysis and interpretation of intelligence information, and (4) to help you understand the nature and significance of foreign intelligence in national security decision-making.

We are interested, in general terms only, how you evaluate the curriculum for the first five weeks of this course. Did the scheduled activities meet the stated objectives: Did the focus and balance of topical coverage, visits, presentations by key speakers, and other planned activities meet your needs and expectations? What were the strong elements in the course to date? What things might need change or improvement in a future running of such a course? (Please use the rest of this page and the reverse side, if necessary, to respond to as many of these questions, and others that you wish to answer. Your comments will be considered as one ingredient in planning future programs for training analysts for this Agency. It is important to us, therefore, if you identify a problem area; we invite your suggestions for constructive improvement. At the conclusion of the course we will give you another opportunity to comment).

FTD/OTR
April 1974

Several intelligence units and some individual speakers have requested our feed-back on the effectiveness of their presentations in meeting course objectives. Please comment briefly (a phrase will do) on your reactions to the following:

DDO Presentations (20 March)

Visit to DIS (21 March)

Visit to State Dept (22 March)

NPIC and IAS Visit (15 April)

Methodologies for Intelligence Analysis (26 March-1 April)

NSA Visit (2 and 3 April)

25X1A

 8 April)

S & T Day (11 April)

CRS Visit (12 April)

INTELLIGENCE PRODUCTION COURSE (IPC 2-74)

Course Critique Form B

(Final Class Evaluation)

This written critique form is a second opportunity for us to solicit your ideas to help us design future programs for analyst training.

Please consult your course syllabus for objectives and scope notes to refresh your memory. If you feel there were any serious overall weaknesses in the course, please identify them and suggest solutions. If you thought something was particularly useful and worthy of more development, please discuss that.

If, after completing this brief critique form, you would like to give us more feedback at a later date, please write us a memo which you should address to OTR/FTD/ICTP, Attn: Course Chairman. As a participant in the IPC just concluding, we invite your constructive comments on:

(1) the validity of our stated course objectives in meeting your needs and expectations

CONFIDENTIAL

Approved For Release 2001/08/08 : CIA-RDP78-03573A000100060010-7

(2) the relevance of course content (nature, scope, level, etc.)
to accomplish our objectives

(3) the appropriateness (balance, time, sequence, etc.) of scheduled activities to meet your educational needs as a new intelligence analyst.

_____
NAME (optional)

Approved For Release 2001/08/08 : CIA-RDP78-03573A000100060010-7

K